

Terrie Grissom, administrative assistant at the CRDC administration building, is interviewed by Lauren Payne of KAIT8 television in Jonesboro.

The PRISM review team spent a week in Jonesboro reviewing the performance of the CRDC Head Start team and making suggestions for improvements in the program.

CRDC human services staffers prepare to receive refugees from Hurricane Katrina during this session at the reception building in Jonesboro.

Dicky Jo Wilson (left) and Marca Nichols (right), CRDC family services staffers in Augusta, present Thanksgiving turkeys to Laura Holcomb of Cotton Plant (second from left) and Hazel Davis of McCrory as part of the Brenda Stracner Thanksgiving Memorial Baskets distribution.

Lots of happy little faces were seen as these Head Start students prepared to participate in a special session of Trick or Treat at a Jonesboro Head Start facility. Teachers and staffers got into the act and all had a great time.

Recipients were plenty when the Paragould Supply Our Schools (S.O.S.) distribution was held in the Greene County community.

The chairs were all occupied at this November meeting involving both the CRDC board of directors and the Head Start policy council.

Carrie Cooper (standing, far right) stands with fellow CRDC staffer Miranda Kerperien as Philadelphia Elementary School children enjoy accolades from teachers for collecting canned goods for the CRDC food pantry.

Robert Wilford (standing) addresses the attendees of the hearing in Monette called to elect a new member to the board from Craighead County.

Posing with the R.E.A.C.H. Quality Assurance Award are (l to r) Loyd Price, CRDC chief operations officer; Jill Davidson, staff; Jo Battle, R.E.A.C.H. director; and Robert Wilford, CRDC executive director.

Staff and management gather at the new apartments constructed by CRDC in Jonesboro. The building was the first to be built by CRDC using private funding.

Fran Gillins (left), retiring director of human services at CRDC, listens along with Loyd Price (seated) as Robert Wilford, agency executive director, reads a plaque honoring the outgoing community action veteran.

Robert Wilford, CRDC executive director (left), and Loyd Price, CRDC chief operations officer (right), pose with Gov. Mike Huckabee following a ceremony proclaiming Weatherization Day in Arkansas.

Robert Wilford, executive director, shows Will Price, son of new chief operations officer, Loyd Price, an optical illusion in a photo in his office. Will was on his first visit to CRDC's administration office and got the grand tour.