

Marty Buchman, CRDC board president (left), and Robert Wilford (right), present appreciation plaque to Robert Dowler, former mayor of Marmaduke and member of the CRDC board of directors.

Ashley Bowie and John Griffith of the CRDC housing department staff work at booth a recent home expo in Jonesboro.

Fran Gillins (standing), Human Services director for CRDC, speaks to a group gathered at the CSBG hearing held recently at the Wynne Aging Center.

Travelling to the Wynne Easter celebration at the Aging Center was this group of ladies from Marianna. They joined over a hundred of their fellow seniors for the celebration of the holiday at the center.

Winners of the Easter hat competition at the Forrest City Aging Center gathering included (l to r) Elizabeth Jefferson, Over All Winner; Lillie Brown, Most Unusual; Aretha Webb, Prettiest; and Addie Smith, Most Original. A large group was on hand to participate in the big event.

CRDC's executive director, Robert Wilford, presents an overview of Crowley's Ridge Development Council and the relationship between its board and the Head Start policy at council during the joint training session in April.

Robert Wilford (standing), CRDC executive director, addresses a group of residents at the Trumann Country Club. Wilford was speaking to the Trumann Rotary Club at their regular weekly session.

Terrie Grissom, an administrative assistant in the admin office of CRDC, discusses training question with Robert Sheard, systems administrator, during joint training.

CRDC board members, staff, and guests join Bill and Carolyn Craft for a group shot around the new sign at the Head Start facility in Harrisburg, now officially known as the Bill and Carolyn Craft Child Development Head Start Center.

Jo Battle (right), CRDC's REACH director, is shown with (l to r) Lisa Powell, Natalie Carr and Lynn McCoy. All are members of the Arkansas Delta Rural Development Network and were attending a meeting of the group in Jonesboro.

Carrie Cooper, standing, fields questions from a large group that gathered to launch the new Supply Our Schools campaign in Northeast Arkansas. Enthusiasm was high and numerous new ideas are to be put into action.

The new weatherization department warehouse/office facility in Wynne was completed in April and is now being occupied by the CRDC staff for that area.

Bill and Carolyn Craft prepare to cut the cake at the Head Start re-dedication ceremony at Harrisburg. The two were honored at the ceremony when the Harrisburg Head Start facility was renamed for them.