which they live." Marca and her husband, Shandon, have one child, 9-year-old Madison Victoria. "She is the pride of my life," says Marca. No doubt, Madison Victoria is somewhere nearby when Marca is enjoying off duty pursuits of shooting hoops, attending car shows and playing in the White River during the summer. Thanks, Marca – job well done!

ANGELA GEORGE

CHILD DEVELOPMENT

Angela George is certainly no stranger at CRDC. The family and community partnership specialist in the Child Development program has been a part of the agency for 12 years. She started out as a Head Start teacher and moved up to her present position. She says she loves working with the children and families and assisting in improving their lives. With a bachelor of science in psychology (minor in sociology), she plans to pursue a specialist degree in counseling, thereby improving her skills and abilities to help others. The Little Rock native and her husband, Jesse, have a beautiful baby girl, Erin. When not working or playing with Erin, she enjoys exercising, sports and movies. Thanks, Angela, for all you do!

zealous staff at the PRC and hopes her efforts and those of those with whom she works in prevention will help "put the treatment centers out of business!" When she isn't attending class at ASU and working for the prevention team, Robin enjoys shopping for shoes and accessories. We're glad to have your zeal and enthusiasm on our team, Robin!

NORA WATSON

AGING SERVICES

A newcomer to the CRDC family, Nora Watson joined the aging crew at the Wynne Senior Center just a few months ago. She is the program aide at the center where she says she enjoys "being with people. I love making people laugh. But most of all, someone makes my day every day at CRDC!" The East Prairie, Mo., native says she hopes she will be remembered as being a good worker and a good people person "for as long as I can and do continue to work here." But, most of all, she says she wants to make lots of friends! According to some of the patrons of the Wynne facility, she has been making lots of friends and they enjoy her attitude of friendliness and concern. The widowed mother of two enjoys arts and crafts and singing when she isn't working at the Wynne Senior Center. Welcome aboard, Nora!
