To Whom It May Concern:

I have known Robert Allen for more than 25 years, having first met him when he entered the journalism program at Arkansas State University. He further worked for me in the ASU News Bureau as a student employee for several years, performing a number of tasks in support of our efforts to promote the school.

His contributions to ASU during his student years and later efforts in the fields of communications and public relations are well documented. His intelligence, talent, and people-savvy, applied in conjunction with strong work ethics, have served him well.

I know Robert to be of high moral fibre, and a dedicated and conscientious individual. It is therefore my pleasure to recommend him for any position involving the use of his communications, social and management skills as tools to influence others.

Should you need more information on his attributes and abilities, I invite you to call me or come by my office. I will be most happy to meet with you.

Sincerely,

Tom Manning
